

Halloween vs. Día de los Muertos

And Other Worldwide Traditions Honoring the Departed

Halloween vs. Día de los Muertos

Noon to 1 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, 2020

Given that Halloween (Oct. 31), and the Día de los Muertos celebration of All Saints Day (Nov. 1) and All Souls Day (Nov. 2) tumble into each other, the confusion between the celebrations is understandable. Learn online about the similarities and differences of these events and other traditions around the world to help families honor their dearly departed.

Presented by Frank X. Moraga, member of the Coconino Hispanic Advisory Council (CHAC - www.coconinochac.org)
